The Benefits of a Chicken Business

Increasing Income over $1.90/day

Once a family demonstrates stewardship over their garden tower by maintaining healthy crops and consistent harvests, they become eligible to receive support for a chicken business. This next step builds on their success in sustainable farming, allowing them to raise chickens for eggs and meat. Families receive training on poultry care and business management, empowering them to generate additional income by selling eggs and chickens in local markets. By diversifying their food sources and income streams, families strengthen their self-reliance, improve nutrition, and create long-term opportunities for economic growth.
